SOMETHING REAL. . .

We are pleased that you, the vast majority of readers, are pleased with the Bicentennial recall of Milam history and pre-Revolution history in The Herald of August 23.

We have extra copies at the regular newsstand price of 15 cents and a penny tax for those who find the capsule stories of about 235 years of Milam area history worth keeping.

One of the fascinating things in this section was contained in an ad about the American merchant, J. C. Penney. I learned, for example the man's real middle name was Cash, like his father's, and that it was a family name, not a play on "cash" which his company gathered in during his lifetime of 95 years.

Penney was born in Missouri before he migrated westward to Denver and Longmont, Colo., and finally to Kemmerer, Wyoming, where he opened his first store.

Years later, and perhaps a thousand stores later, Penney moved to New York where corporate headquarters were, where the financial houses were, where the styles were. And during his later years, he developed a herd of prize dairy cattle, Holsteins I believe, in Upstate New York.

Perhaps 20 years ago, he remembered the state of his birth, Missouri, and gave his prize herd to the University of Missouri, Columbia, whose ag school is of some note in the Midwest They came in by the boxcarful, a unique gift from a merchant prince.

Penney would likely discourage any comparison to a "prince". He emphasized principles in dealing with the public, his first store of four dozen called the "Golden Rule" store.

But in the eye of Mainstreet U. S.A. in the 1920s, Penney emerged a merchant prince.

If J. C. Penney had started a career a half century later, I hazard a guess it would have been a more exotic line, not that developing a 1,500-store chain in 95 years wouldn't have its problems and fascination.

But he said a contemporary thing about life one time which suggests he would go for a moonshot or sophisticated developments in finance or profession: "There isn't much zest to rowing in slack water."

Perhaps most striking about this advertisement was the headlines. (Yes, ads have headlines just like news stories.)

They read: (Over pictures of the entrepreneur)

"James Cash Penney. The Middle Name Was Real.

"So was the Man."

SUDDEN DEATH. . .

Eric Severeid, the CBS observer-commentator, talked about electronic newspeople, their salaries and their inexactitudes on the Tom Snyder Tomorrow show early Wednesday.

CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite looks to Severeid's nightly analysis of lead news and commentary on politics, war and whatever's left.

The man is one of several highly paid to put some things in perspective we see daily on television news. He thinks newspeople are less effective as they become more the personality, more the newsmaker themselves. He sees subjects altering their personalities and responses when a name TV newsperson interviews them. And he thinks the big salaries are disruptive to a news gathering organization.

Severeid is perhaps 60. He once wrote a newspaper column and a couple of books which both have been reissued, somewhat unique because one was written when he was 18 and the other 30 years ago after World War II.

He spent that war as a correspondent, noting he has "seen some of the world."

The contrast in his lack of certainty with the sometime somewhat glib tone of interviewer Snyder dramatizes the difference expected of men 20 years different in age.

But it seems that difference is also in the background which overlaps in their careers. Severeid spent most of his time in print while Snyder is successful in big city radio and TV before this network stint.

I think Severeid never would have developed as an electronic reporter. The sportswriter in unrehearsed reporting, the shock of disaster and impact of personality finds no protection on camera found even in the few minutes or few hours a print reporter has to get things down.

And "show biz" demands emphasis more in appearance, manner, less on the cerebral recall Severeid is good at.

Mellowing, Severeid meets his deadlines with a provacative lack of bravado, for example, predicting that Ford may do more than well in the upcoming debates with Jimmy Carter because of a memory unequalled in the White House, he says, since Harry Truman.

This answer to Snyder's final question, effectively understated, tells a lot about Eric Severeid.

His commentaries, beyond their erudition, are quietly disdainful of the cardiac arrest in TV news deadlines and artifice. He treats events and the men who deal with them less in sudden death, more with a killing kindness.

Resuming Full Production
Alcoa RW Restarting Line

Aluminum Company of America announced Tuesday its Rockdale Works will return to full production of primary aluminum for the first time in over a year when it restarts the last of two potlines idled by the recession.

Reactivation of the units in mid-October will allow the employment of about 65 additional people, according to Alcoa Texas Area Manager Fred P. Bergeron.

The Alcoa official, citing excelerating demand for aluminum as the reason for production restoration, said another Rockdale potline was restarted early last month when the local layoff list was depleted and another 100 people were employed.

Alcoa's Rockdale Works is the company's largest primary aluminum smelter with a rated capacity of 285,000 tons a year--or 1.6 million pounds daily.

Bergeron estimated that employment will surpass 1,700 when the plant returns to full production. In addition, there are 300 employes at Alcoa's adjoining lignite mining and power generating complex operated by Industrial Generating Co.

"Our employment group has been busy processing applicants from throughout Central Texas and reviewing applications from laid-off employes at other Alcoa plants," Bergeron said.

Alcoa, the free world's largest aluminum producer, makes more metal in Texas than any other state. Its Point Comfort operation on the mid-Texas coast is the company's biggest domestic bauxite refinery. Alcoa also operates a smelter near Palestine and an electrical conductor manufacturing plant near Marshall.

Green Thumbers Making Repairs On Old Jail

Repairs and other improvements to the old county jail are moving forward with Green Thumb workers doing the plastering, painting, and renovation. The building will house a county museum which will open in October.

Green Thumb workers are men over 60 years old who are supplementing their social security income and are paid by the U. S. Department of Labor. The workers in Cameron are assigned to the Community Development Agency.

The workers are also working on a building for the new park which will house facilities for a hot meals program for the elderly in Cameron when it is finished. The city has available funds from the Hill Country Community Action Association to purchase and move the building from its location at Fort Hood, according to A. W. McCullin, CDA director.

McCullin said any elderly person is eligible for the hot meal program, as it is not based on income but on need. A trained dietician will prepare meals when facilities are available. McCullin said funds for the meal program will also come from the Hill Country group.

1,573 Register For School Term

First day school enrollment totaled 1,573, according to Supt. Buddy Dulin, which is 11 less than last year's first day total of 1,584. Dulin said some 100 more students are expected to register within the next two or three weeks.

School totals included: Ben Milam, 307; Ada Henderson, 352; O. J. Thomas, 411; and Yoe High, 503.

Explosion, Fire Result In Death

Funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Monday for Mrs. Dora Smith, 83, who died of injuries sustained in an explosion and fire at her home on Rt. 1, Cameron, early Saturday night.

Cameron firemen said the call was received about 7:46 p.m. Mrs. Smith was pulled from the burning house by two Rockdale residents, who were treated and released from St. Edward Hospital with minor burns on their hands. They asked not to be identified.

Sen. Bentsen Speaks Here To Lions, Rotarians Joint Meeting

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says he writes a check to the federal treasury each month for the salary increase voted on by congressmen after he voted against the bill.

This was among confidences and statements contained in the Senator's address before a joint gathering of Cameron Lions and Rotarians Monday at noon in Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Bentsen spoke on small town compaigning, issues before congress, and answered questions from the floor in his 20-minute talk.

The Senator said he has managed to keep his attendance record at around 85 percent by campaigning on weekends. "My opponent's record since June 1 is about 47percent."

Bentsen was referring to Cong. Alan Steelman of Dallas, the Republican Party's candidate for senator from Texas on the November 2 general election ballot.

Bentsen attended a coffee in Caldwell Monday morning, spoke at Cameron at noon, then went on to Marlin for a reception. He said he would be back in Washington Tuesda y morning.

He said he is working to do away with some of the volume of forms and paperwork now bogging down government offices. Bentsen said some $18 billion was spent last year on forms, including a tax return which is too difficult for the average person to understand.

Bentsen said he was a co-sponsor of the "sunset" legislation which would cut out programs that are not working and review others every five or six years.

He said "extremists" on both sides of the environmental protection question should be put down, or the country cannot grow.

Bentsen said he is working hard to raise the estate tax exemptions from $50,000 to $200,000 so that the farm owners and small business owners do not have to sell in order to pay their taxes.

"About 25 percent of the owners of the family farms and small businesses are having to sell in order to pay their taxes," he said. "The Senate bill is now before the conference committee. It provides for an increase in exemptions to $120,000 and further increases to $200,000 in five years."

Bentsen said the "true story" of America is "our refusal to give way to the law of the jungle." He spoke on the country's plagues which include "inflation, unemployment, immorality, political assasination, resignation, terrorism, narcotics, and alienation."

"We have had tougher times in the past," Bentsen told the group. "Poeople are asking for honesty in government and they are entitled to it."

Bentsen said he mails back his salary increases each month because too many people are having a tough time making it and he voted against the increase when it came before the Senate.

Answering a question on gun control legislation, Bentsen called it an "emotional issue" and said he doesn't think registration of firearms is a deterrent to crime. He recommends stiffer penalties and even-handed justice for all crimes. He said he has offered legislation to cut off trade to any nation that harbors terrorists.

Bentsen answered Rep. Dan Kubiak's question about highway funds by reporting that money has been set up for the highway program, with states paying 30 percent and the federal government 70 percent.

Bentsen also said that he is supporting a bill to have revenue sharing controls left more on the local level.

Answering another question on national health insurance, Bentsen said he is supporting propositions to help persons who are faced with high hospital bills on catastrophic illnesses.

Another question dealt with lack of proper research on laws such as the one containing a flamability code. Bentsen said there is a tendency for departments to over react to some situations.

Bentsen said he was impressed by the city's urban renewal program and praised the results that could be seen in a drive around the area.

Ag Week Cites Farmers, Ranchers

Milam County's farmers, ranchers, and agribusiness men are being recognized this week by the Agricultural Committee of the Cameron Area Chamber of Commerce for the vital role they play in the economics of this area.

The industrial impact on the area, headed by Alcoa, is "tremendous," according to Sid Duderstadt, chairman of the Chamber's ag committee. "We are proud of the quality of farmers, ranchers, and related agricultural businesses in the county and are taking this opportunity to say thanks."

The leading agricultural item in Milam County historically has been beef cattle, but with depressed prices in this business since 1973 and world food supplies questionable, grain sorghum has been the top money crop in both 1974 and 1975. The 1975 grain sorghum crop saw a record 75,000 acres planted but wet fields cut per acre yields drastically.

Estimated cash receipts from grain sorghum in 1975 were $6,615,000 as compared to $7,308.000 in 1974 Figures for 1976 are not in as yet but per acre yields are expected to be considerably better than 1975. This will be offset by price, however, as 1975 prices averaged $4.50 while sorghum prices this year are in the $4 range.

Receipts from beef cattle were estimated at $4,500,000 in 1975 and the beef industry is not expected to fare much better in 1976. Income from beef cattle is way off the pace as this commodity was worth $10,553,000 in 1973.

Hogs are one of the items continuing to show strength over the last several years. Hog production typically is big business with small family farms not producing. Hog production in Milam County grossed $3,300,000 in 1975 to be number three in terms of cash receipts.

King Cotton faltered in 1975 with only 17,000 acres planted and 7,000 bales produced, averaging 40 cents per pound. Cash receipts from cotton in 1975 totaled $1,680,000.

In 1976 some 27,000 acres of cotton were planted. Cotton prices promise to be good with much of it contracted in the 60 to 70 cent range. The problem this year is in making a crop as two weeks of wet weather in early July ruined some excellent prospects.

Rain, followed by outbreaks of bollworms and boll weevils, devastated much of the acreage. It is difficult to say what the cotton yield will be, but there is no way it can approximate the long term yield of over 1/2 bale per acre as many acres will be shredded instead of harvested.

Two years of more than adequate rainfall have boosted hay crops in the county. In both 1974 and 1975, hay crops have been worth over $1,500,000.

Other commodities bringing in over $1,000,000 to the county include vegetable crops and turkeys, with other poultry and milk production not far off the pace. Other commodities adding significantly to the cash income include fish, honey, peanuts, pecans, and wheat.

Total ag income in 1975 in Milam County was estimated at $26.000,000. This was down from the all time high of $31,700,000 in 1973 and slightly off the total of $26,700,000 in 1974. Fgures for 1976 are not in yet but probably will not vary much from the 1974 and '75 figures.

"These figures point out that the farmer is working more, investing more, and making less," Duderstadt stated. "He is a major force in checking inflation and continues to produce food and fiber at record rates to fuel the United States and the world."

"When you see your farmer, rancher, and agribusinessman this week, say 'thanks' for a job well done, one certainly deserving a pat on the back," he concluded.

Fund Drive Set For Youth Expo Building

Plans for a county-wide fund drive for the Milam County Youth Exposition building are being drawn up by a finance committee with the drive to be conducted Sept. 13-25.

Total funds pledged or on hand is now $33,050, leaving a balance of $31,950 to be raised for the $65,000 goal.

The fund drive will be under the direction of Carl Grothe and Monroe Fuchs, co-chairmen of the finance committee for the Youth Exposition Association.

At a directors meeting Monday, a publicity committee was appointed with Mrs. Paul Hoelscher as chairman. Members include Gene smitherman, KMIL Radio; Frank Luecke, The Cameron Herald; Bill Cooke, The Rockdale Reporter; and H. F. Farrell, The Thorndale Champion.

The Association's immediate plan is to construct two buildings on the site across from city hall in Cameron. One building will be 100 x 120 feet, insulated, heated, 8 large fans, concession stands, restrooms, concrete floor, and a large door. The second building would be 60 x 100 feet with a sand floor.

In addition to being used for livestock shows, these buildings can house other forms of recreation and meetings: broiler show, Folk Fete, concerts, machinery exhibits, auto exhibits, home demonstration meetings and shows, with ample parking for all.

In addition to cash donations, the donation of livestock will be welcomed by the committee. Sixteen animals have bee n donated. The Cameron Livestock Auction has consented to auction the donated livestock free of charge.

A roundtable discussion on the building will be conducted on KMIL on Wednesday, Sept. 8, with a question and answer session.

Toward Youth And Jobs...

Activity in the Cameron Industrial Foundation and the Milam Youth Exposition Association assure new developments within the year.

CIF is acting upon options to purchase additional land and the Exposition board is going countywide in a drive to raise about $32,000 for a county youth exposition hall here.

CIF officials are receiving a few inquiries about location, a renewed interest after about two years of national recession. Additional building space is being purchased for prospects out of cash holdings of the public industrial corporation.

Exposition board members are taking their drive to every community and region of Milam County for the final half of the fund drive. Goal is something more than $65,000 for the 12,000-square-foot building on the downtown Cameron site.

With these two organizations on the move, prospects for continued development following the opening of a new Milam Museum October 9, the reopening of the last potline shut down in Rockdale Alcoa, among other events, and the Bicentennial will be more than a year of history lesson.

It is already proving to be a watershed year in Milam County.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

AIR BAGS: SAFETY VERSUS FREEDOM

Rep. Bud Shuster (Pa.) ". . .Secretary of Transportation, William Coleman, is to be complimented for his judicious approach to resolving the "air bag" issue.

"As the ranking minority member of the Surface, Transportation Subcommittee I am painfully aware of the indisputable fact that the use of automobile restraints such as seat belts and air bags, can save lives. It is dumb not to wear a seat belt; however, in a free society people have a right to do d umb things. While I strongly advocate the use of seat belts, I stop short of mandating them. . .

"Following is an article by James J. Kilpatrick which focuses on the issue. . .from the Washington Post. . .I commend it to my colleagues." (Excerpts follow):

When It's Big Brother Who Buckles You In.

What is the role of the state? What is the responsibility of the individual? Where is the line to be drawn that separates compulsion from freedom?

General Motors trying to be cooperative, offered air bags as an option on its Oldsmobiles, Buicks, and Cadillacs in the 1974,'75, and '76 model years. The company advertised heavily. It hoped to sell 100,000 air bagged cars in each of the years. In the three model years combined, only 10,000 customers turned up.

The final option, for mandatory installation of air bags in every new car, has been kicked around since 1971 without getting any better. GM estimates the cost of manufacture and installation at roughly $500 per car. The company actually charged the 10,000 customers $315. In volume production, the cost might drop to say, $250.

And for what? The requirement would add some measure of lifesaving protection in some accidents. Is the high cost worth the contingent benefit? It seems doubtful. And an intangible price must add to the cost in dollars in furthering the concept that the federal government is the benevolent shepard, protecting his dumb sheep from their folly.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Drivers of automotive vehicles continue to run "head on" into each other. They fall asleep at the wheel and hit trees. They drive too fast for road conditions and wreck their cars and kill innocent people. They drive while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs and fill the hospital emergency wards The list seems endless. Some states are making the use of seat belts mandatory; installation of air bags in all new cars may be next.

"Big brother" wants to be helpful!

Hill Rules On Campaign Cost Limits

Attorney General John Hill has ruled unconstitutional the Texas law limiting campaign expenditures in statewide races.

Hill based his decision on a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling (Buckley v. Valeo) that a section of the Federal Election Campaign Act limiting campaign spending was an "invalid infringement upon the right of free expression guaranteed by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution."

The 64th Legislature passed a bill limiting candidates for statewide office in a general primary election or general election to campaign expenditures totaling 10 cents multiplied by the voting-age population of the state.

The runoff primary limit was set at four cents multiplied by the voting-age population. Candidates for State Board of Education were limited to campaign expenditures totaling $1,500.

The opinion was requested by Secretary of State Mark White and Education Commissioner M. L. Brockett.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

— Comparable sales of farms and ranches should be considered in assessing the value of land used for agricultural purposes.

— County officials and employes can be paid for unused sick leave but are not entitled to interest on their matured but unpaid claims for accrued sick leave.

— The Railroad Commission is required to issue notice and conduct hearings in order to issue a formal declaratory ruling which requires an interpretation of a previously adopted Commission rule.

More Troopers Needed

Col. Wilson Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, says he needs more troopers and is asking for a budget increase of 18% — $97,600,000 for fiscal 1979.

Speir says the DPS is losing its battle to make Texans observe the 55-mph speed limit, despite the issuance of 700,000 tickets a year. He would like to have 1,000 more patrolmen added to the 1,481 now in uniform at a cost of $20,000,000 annually.

Speir also recommends regional crime labs at Abilene and Wichita Falls. He is concerned about what may happen to his department's share of the Highway Fund if that share goes to the Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Budget Cuts Ordered

The Legislative Budget Board wants state agency budgets for the next biennium cut 10 per cent unless the various agencies can justify specific increases.

"Let's be hardnosed about this and tell all agencies we mean business," said House Speaker Bill Clayton, who made the original motion.

The board rejected Clayton's first proposal to direct the LBB staff to come up with 10 per cent cuts. Instead, the members adopted a motion that budgets should be cut when there would be no significant loss of services.

"We might as well be realistic aobut this," said Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "Are we going to apply this 10 per cent cut to the Highway Department?"

Sizeable revenue increases for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation have been proposed by Gov. Briscoe. The governor has suggested giving the department an additional $825 million to "preserve the Texas highway system from deteroriation."

Briscoe said the system is imperiled by "an outmoded system of financing which offers no resistance to the ravages of inflation."

Those funds would go to the highway department by shifting moneys from other programs by: dedicating 75 per cent of the motor vehicle sales tax to highways; adding some $45 million annually from sales taxes on tires, automobile parts, etc.; taking $50 million annually from the Department of Public Safety; and adding $100 million a year from Revenue Sharing funds.

New Medicaid Pact

The State Welfare Board has given up its five-week battle for a two-party Medicaid agreement, and awarded H. Ross Perot's computer firm a $165.6 million contract to administer the state medical assistance program for the needy.

The board accepted the Dallas firm's low bid for the eight-month contract after negotiating sessions failed to produce a joint agreement between Group Hospital Services, Inc. (Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas) and Perot's Electronic Data Systems.

Blue Cross, which had administered the program since its inception in 1967, had been the next lowest bidder at $167.3 million.

Commissioner Raymond Vowell recommended that DPW seek a joint contract with GHSI and EDS at the low bid.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

The same as everybody else except the people who wrote them, I have not read the entire platforms of the Democratic or Republican parties, but I have paid enough attention to catch on to some of the main planks and I am forced to say they don't suit me. I knew they wouldn't suit me before they were written. A man who can't develop his own prejudices ahead of time isn't going to have any fun with politics. Might as well try to keep a delegate from waving a sign.

Anyway, just to be doing, I have drawn up a platform of my own, facing up to the issues as I see them:

Tax Loopholes: Some people are in favor of closing the tax loopholes. I don;t want them closed, I want them pointed out.

Child Care: A good idea. All children should take care of their parents.

Busing: I'm in favor of outlawing busing in the Panama Canal.

Abortion: It's not necessary to dodge this issue, the other candidate s have already done it for me.

Equal Rights: I'm in favor of equal rights, but am violently opposed to equal wrongs. Let somebody else get mugged. Of course women are free to think whatever they please, so long as they get the meals on the table on time.

Foreign Policy: It will be continued till we run out of money, at which time it'll be the other countries' turn to foreign-policy us.

Unemployment: There should be a job for everybody who wants one, and none for those who don't.

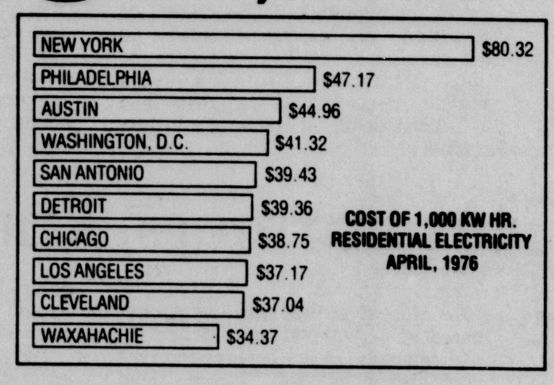
Earthquakes: Who needs them when we've got people like the citizens of Beirut?

Inflation: Everybody else should lower his prices and leave mine alone.

If I've left out any issues, it was intentional.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

TP&L residential customers in 247 cities pay less for electricity than the people who live in Austin, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, San Antonio, and Washington, D.C. .... to name just a few.



In Waxahachie and most other cities in the Texas Power & Light service area, 1,000 kilowatt-hours of residential electricity costs less than in most areas of Texas and the nation.

We're not overlooking the fact that in recent years the price of electricity has gone up everywhere, including the area served by TP&L. Skyrocketing costs of producing and supplying power have left TP&L and other companies no choice but to ask customers to pay more for their electric service.

Even so, the price of TP&L electricity today is far less than it would have been if we were not constantly working to hold down the price. One of the ways we're doing this is to build and operate generating plants which use lower cost lignite coal as fuel rather than natural gas. Two lignite plants are now producing power for TP&L customers and others are under construction and being planned.

For more than sixty-four years, Texas Power & Light has supplied dependable electric service at a fair price. We're working to keep it that way.

Cotton, Corn, Peanuts Show Increase . . . Sorghum, Wheat Decrease.

Texas agricultural producers continue to pride themselves to be highly efficient in production of food and fiber, as evidenced by the latest crop reports from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Cotton, corn, and peanuts are above production figures of last year. Declines, however, were noted in sorghum and wheat, primarily due to weather and a reduction in acres.

Cotton production for the state is now estimated at 3.4 million bales, 43 per cent above a year ago. Yield is expected to average 363 pounds per acre, which is 70 pounds per acre higher than a year ago. Acreage for harvest at 4.5 million acres is 15 per cent above 1975.

Texas farmers continue to make fantastic advances in production of corn, a commodity reserved almost exclusively for the Midwest. Although it still has a long way to go in total production, Texas is the leader in per acre yields of corn.

A whopping 110 bushel per acre yield is forecast for the state this year. A 154 million bushel crop is projected. This would be up 36 per cent from last year. Acreage is set at 1.4 million; that's up 27 per cent from a year ago.

Harvest of the crop statewide is now about 20 per cent complete. Most of the corn in the state is being produced under irrigation on the High Plains.

SORGHUM PRODUCTION FOR THE STATE is now estimated at 330 million bushels. This is down 12 per cent from 1975. Yield, however, is expected to be 55 bushels per acre which is three bushels more than last year. The crop is more than one-third harvested over the state.

Wheat production totaled 103.4 million bushels, which is 21 per cent under a year ago. Harvested acreage is estimated at 4.7 million acres, a million below last year. Despite weather problems, per acre yields this year are going to be only a bushel per acre less than 1975.

Peanut production this year is expected to be six per cent above a year ago. Per acre yields are expected to hit 1,600 pounds per acre compared with 1,525 pounds in 1975.

OTHER CROP HARVEST PROSPECTS for Texas include the following: soybean production is estimated at 9.1 million bushels, about 35,000 bushels above a year ago; rice production is set at about 24.3 million hundredweight, which is three per cent less than last year.

Oat production is down 26 per cent this year compared to a year ago; barley production is estimated to be 15 per cent less than last year; rye production is expected to be half of 1975 levels; and flax production will be down 40,000 bushels from a year ago.

A harvest report for corn, cotton, sorghum, rice, and peanuts shows that, percentage-wise, this year is about on an even keel with the three-year average.

Cotton Prices Unsteady

Cotton prices took a sharp plunge during the last three weeks of July, dropping about 20 cents per pound after reaching high levels earlier. With this, an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service believes the cotton market has experienced both the high and the low for the season.

"Two steps forward and one back can be expected until price recovery is complete," says Charles Baker. "Supply, demand and crop prospects should take hold soon to steady market conditions."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's August 12 cotton crop estimate of 10.7 million bales points to the fact that we can't produce enough cotton in 1976 to meet demand, notes Baker. Domestic consumption is estimated at 6.8 million bales while 4.5 million will be shipped abroad. That's 600,000 bales more than the expected crop.

"U. S. cotton growers have contracted 47 percent of their crop, with 22 percent of the Texas crop under contract. More contracts will be signed when prices get back up near July levels," predicts Baker. "If contracts aren't right and price isn't right at time of harvest, farmers are expected to use the loan much more than in 1975,"

Farmers should be concerned about seed prices also, notes Baker.

Moisture Level Key To Grain Crop Storage

Watching moisture content of grain crops as well as taking simple precautions can insure safe storage after harvesting, says an agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Richard Withers points out that an aeration system for grain cooling and moisture control is needed if the grain is stored more than two to three months.

"Harvesting efficiency can be improved significantly with some crops by harvesting at moisture contents of 18 percent or above. When grain is harvested at a moisture content higher than that recommended for safe storage, mechanical drying must be done," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Moisture contents for safe storage vary with crops. Withers suggests these moisture percentages for efficient storage: corn, 13; flax, 8; rice, 12.5; sorghum, 12-14; soybeans, 11-12; sunflowers, 8; and wheat, 12-14.

"The higher the grain temperature and moisture content, the quicker the grain must be dried mechanically to prevent mold," Withers points out.

"For example, when grain is at 90 degrees F. and has a moisture content of 18 percent, the moisture content must be reduced to 16 percent within about six-to-eight days. If the temperature is reduced to 70 degrees F., the allowable time to reduce moisture is about 30 days. Of course, in this example it is assumed that grain is being aerated during this period."

According to Withers, aeration systems for cooling grain and controlling moisture migration within the grain should supply about one-tenth cubic foot per minute (cfm) of air flow per bushel.

"Fans must be designed to provide this flow rate against the pressures developed in pushing air through the grain. If unheated air drying is carried out in the bin, an air flow of three-and-a-half to four cfm per bushel is required," contends the engineer.

Withers cautions that for certain crops designed for the human food industry, drying with heated air dryers may result in severe loss in grade and potential income as well as a loss in germination if the grain is to be used for planting.

"Grain temperatures should not exceed 110-120 degrees F. if germination is planned. Temperatures above this level should be allowed with extreme caution, particularly for food grains," adds Withers.

He also suggests some simple precautionary measures before storing crops.

Checking potential sources of water leaks into bins and sealing them with a good non-drying caulking compound is important. Also make sure air vents are protected from blowing rain.

"Where rust spots exist on galvanized bin surface, clean the surface with a wire brush and apply a good quality zinc or rust inhibiting paint," advises Withers. "Also plan for alternatives in your harvest and storage operation in case emergency drying or protection against insects is needed."

Sorghum Growers Elect Directors

Sorghum producers in East Texas have elected directors to Grain Sorghum Producers Association, national commodity organization headquartered in Lubbock.

Re-elected to GSPA posts were Dan Pustejovsky of Hillsboro, representing Hill County; John A. Smith of Cameron, Milam County; Gilbert Ginzel of Manor, Travis County; and Kenneth Johnson, Williamson County.

Named to his first board term was Tommy James of Ferris, representing Ellis County.

Smith is vice-president of the national organization.

State Hay Show Set Near Austin

Not only hay producers but cattlemen and others should find the 1976 State Hay Show to their liking. The show is set for Oct. 2 at the Harold Green Farm on Farm Road 973 east of Austin.

The educational event will have a lot to offer, foremost being the judging of hay entries from across the state. However, other attractions will include an equipment exposition, livestock exhibits, a hay judging contest, various educational booths, and several keynote speakers.

A good hay crop is being harvested throughout Texas, and all producers should make plans to attend the state show and especially to submit hay samples for judging, says Dr. Neal Pratt, forage specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

All hay samples must be sent to the Travis County Extension Office by Sept. 15. A protein analysis will be provided so there is no charge for entering the show.

All class winners will receive plaques along with special prizes. The grand champion entry will also receive a special award, notes Pratt.

Actual judging of hay entries will be on Oct. 1. Registration for the State Hay Show will begin at 9 a.m. on Oct. 2, with the hay judging contest coming at 10 a.m. A discussion on quality forage production by Pratt will precede a noon barbecue.

ICA Calls For Facts About Meat Imports

The Independent Cattlemen's Association has called on the U. S. Department of Agriculture to show that American meat producers--already crippled by foreign meat imports--won't be further hurt by USDA's proposal to let the Republic of China, Taiwan, ship meat into the United States.

ICA President T. A. Cunningham of Goliad said that any imports permitted from Taiwan should be restricted within overall limits set by the existing Meat Importation Act.

"If Taiwan simply got a chunk of the existing import trade, then we wouldn't be hurt any worse than we are already," Cunningham said, "but if these are new an additional imports, then for every pound an American stockman suffers."

The USDA has said its proposal to let Taiwan export meat to the U. S. is based on findings that Taiwan meat processing standards are at least equal to the U.S. meat inspection program.

"Assuming this is correct, it represents some protection

Vows Unite Huntsman-Trdy

Miss Merri Elizabeth Huntsman and Michael John Trdy, both of Cameron, were united in marriage Saturday, August 21 in an afternoon service at St. Monica's Catholic Church in Cameron.

Father John T. Geiser performed the double-ring ceremony. Furnishing the music was Miss Brenda Gilbert, organist, and Miss Loretta Kunz, vocalist, both of Cameron. Selections sung were "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal sleeveless A-line silk organza gown featuring a venice and chantilly lace trimmed empire bodice, a bertha collar with a scooped neckline, and a flounce hemline with an attached full length chapel train. A hand rolled double flange silk organza bridal hat banded in matching lace with a silk illusion veil completed the ensemble. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Linda Lemon of Cameron served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Elaine Trdy, sister of the groom, Connie Widner, and Christy Widner, all of Cameron. They wore yellow crepe A-line dresses featuring white eyelet front panels with floral designs of yellow, orange, and lilac and puffed sleeves which matched the panels. The maid of honor wore a white picture hat accented with a yellow tulle. Two bridesmaids wore yello w hats with white tules while the others wore yellow and white tulled picture hats. They carried spring bouquets of carnations in the bride's chosen colors of yellow, tangerine, and lilac held in place with yellow ribbons.

Serving as best man was David Hornung of Cameron. Groomsmen were Joseph Jistel, Gary Thweatt, and Gary Trdy, brother of the groom, all of Cameron.

Miss Paula Miller of Cameron and Miss Kimberly Beach of Brenham were flower girls.

Ushers were Eddie A. Huntsman Jr. of Thorndale, brother of the bride; Joe Trdy Jr. of Cameron, cousin of the groom; and Gary Huntsman of Rosebud, brother of the bride.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table held a three-tiered white cake decorated with yellow roses and a miniature bride and groom. Centered on the table was an arrangement of yellow, tangerine, and lilac carnations.

Miss Terri Mortimer of Rockdale registered guests. Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Beverly Huntsman of Rosebud, Mrs. Joyce Huntsman of Thorndale, Kelly and Sandy Beach of Brenham, and Cheryl and Mrs. Lillian Tibodeaux, both of Abilene.

The bride, a 1975 graduate of Yoe High School, graduated from Temple Beauty School and is employed at Faye's Beauty Shop. The groom is a 1973 graduate of Yoe High School and attended Temple Junior College where he graduated in 1975. He is presently employed at McLane's Wholesale in Temple.

After a honeymoon trip to Colorado and New Mexico, the couple will live in Cameron.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner in their home where the couple presented their attendants with gifts.

Retired Teachers To Set Goals For 1976-77 Year

The Milam County Retired Teachers Association plans to set legislative goals for the new year as they meet Wednesday, Sept. 1 at 2 p.m. in the First National Bank Conference Room in Cameron.

Max McClaren, Milam County superintendent of schools, will peak on "Improvements Endorsed by RTA."

Officers of the 85-member organization are Doris Gleason, president; Margie Ireland, vice-president; Ruby Mosley, second vice-president; Ruth Rosson, secretary; and Ruby Arledge, treasurer.

Purposes of the Milam County Retired Teachers Association are to elevate the status of the retired teachers, to encourage retired teachers to use their talents, training, and experience in community affair involvement, to afford opportunity for united action in solving problems relative to the needs of the retired teachers, and to cooperate with state and national teacher associations in solving problems of mutual concern.

At their last meeting, the Milam County Retired Teachers Association set goals for the "Informative and Protective Service Activities," and heard a report on how the retired teachers used their talents, training, and experience in "Community Affair Involvement." The activities recorded for last year included over 2,824 hours of volunteer work ministering to the needy and lonely retired teachers and senior citizens.

All retired teachers are welcome to attend the club meetings.

Break II Features Top Performers

Comfort and convenience of the concert-goers will be primary consideration of Mayday Productions during the advance planning of the upcoming Sunday Break II, an all-day rock concert scheduled for Labor Day Weekend, Sept. 5, on the shores of Lake Austin.

The event, featuring, The Band, Chicago, England Dan/John Coley, Firefall, Fleetwood Mac, and The Steve Miller Band, is a follow-up to the highly successful Sunday Break held this May in Austin.

"The Sunday Break has been praised as the best organized musical event of its type ever held in the state," said Win Anderson, head of Mayday Productions. "We intend to uphold and improve upon that reputation with Sunday Break II."

In addition to providing an easily accessible site with excellent natural terrain, Mayday Productions has coordinated each facet of the event with proper city, state, and county officials, as well as with the private environmental consulting firm.

Tickets to Sunday Break II will be on sale at the site 24 hours a day beginning 8 a.m. Friday, Sept. 3. Tickets are priced at $10 advance and $12.50 at the gate, and are on sale now in Austin at MG Tapes on the Drag, Armadillo World Headquarters, Oat Willie's, Discovery Records, and Inner Sanctum; in Dallas at Preston Ticket Agency; in Fort Worth at Central Ticket Agency; in San Antonio at Record Hole # 1 and 2; in Houston at all Foley's stores; and in Beaumont at Salmar and Sunrie Imports.

R'bud Man Elected To AETC Board

Luther L. Parks of Rosebud was elected to the board of directors of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives during the organization's annual meeting last week (aug. 11-13) in San Antonio. Parks, a one-time employee of The Rosebud News, has been manager of Belfalls Electric Cooperative in Rosebud since 1973.

His career at the Cooperstive began in 1946 following four years in the U.S. Air Force. During the 30 years since, he has held a variety of positions, including that of line superintendent for 20 years. He was promoted to the top position after the death of the longtime manager A. L. Freeman, Sept. 30, 1973. Parks is also a member of the board of directors of the Brazos Electric Power Cooperative which has general offices in Waco.

Parks is a member of the Baptist Church, Masonic Lodge, and Volunteer Fire Department. He's secretary of the latter. He and his wife, Laura Lane, are parents of two daughters who are now grown and married.

Fire Department Receives Check

The Cameron Volunteer Fire Department received a check for $75 recently from Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies as an expression of thanks for the Department's work on the property of Mrs. Ray Jensen, Rt. 1, Cameron.

The money will be used for their purchase of equipment.

The Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies pay volunteer fire departments this amount when the department works at a fire in rural areas. , involving property insured by them.

The Insurance Company believes volunteer fire departments have contributed to reduce the amount of loss involved by fire and more important, to prevent fires. It is their hope this money will help the Cameron Volunteer Fire Department in their program.

Family Escape Plan Could Be Life Saver

If your life depended on it, could you get out of your house, crawling, eyes stinging because of smoke, lungs burning as your breathe hot air, doors and passageways blocked off by heat and flame?

Many Texans find out the answer to this question each year. For far too many, the answer is "no." For these people the end result can be serious injury or death, says the Texas Insurance Information Center.

The office of the state fire marshal reports that last year approximately 400 persons were killed and about 900 injured in home fires in Texas. Although panic can overcome anyone, children who don't know how to get out of the house and older persons too weak to escape in time, are in particular peril if a fire breaks out in their home.

Although good fire prevention measures provide the best protection against home fires, even the most cautious can suddenly become a fire victim. Killer fires are often those that ignite in the evening after everyone has gone to bed. Undetected,these fires can rage out of control in minutes, overcoming occupants with smoke. Fires spread so quickly that experts say there is only about a four minute safety margin between the outbreak of the fire and safe escape,

This is where a family fire escape plan comes in. Every year there are needless deaths and injuries in Texas that could have been prevented by an effective escape plan.

There isn't a better time for families to work out such a plan than during the summer when children are home from school. Draw a floor plan of your house and plan at least two means of escape from each bedroom--the normal exit and an emergency exit, in case the usual route is blocked by flames or toxic fumes.

Agree ahead of time what warning device or signal will be used to alert the family. Establish a meeting place outside so that a head coutn of the family can be accomplished quickly. Rehearse your plan. This is especially important for children who will often panic and, tragically, hide in closets or under beds rather than escape.

In developing your plan keep in mind the abilities and disabilities of family member. An agile teenager might be able to go through a window or climb down a ladder, but a young child or grandparents may not. Your local fire marshal's office or fire department can give you valuable advice on planning a home escape route.

Since early warning is vital, fire prevention experts suggest that home smoke detection equipment be installed. Such equipment is widely available in electric supply, hardware and large depaetment stores, usually for under $50. Purchase only those detectors thathave been approved by an independent testing laboratory such as Underwriters Laboratory, Inc.

Cardinals Split Two

The Cameron Cardinals split a double header with the Temple Eagles Sunday. Temple took the first game 12-4, with Kenneth Scott losing pitcher and Mark Story catcher.

Lonnie Scott hit a home run for Cameron.

The cardinals took the second game 4-2 with Craig Friemel winning pitcher and Dee Rhodes catching.

The Cardinals are now 22 and 8 for the year and will play the same Temple team Sunday at Colonial Field (fiesta grounds.)

County Fair Set At Brenham

Plans are shaping up for the 108th Washington County Fair to be held September 22-25 in Brenham, according to President A. W. Hartsstack Jr. This Fair offers a wide variety of educational exhibits and entertainment for the people of South Central Texas.

One of the major attractions of the Fair will include livestock exhibits for Junior and breeders. The Junior Beef Heifer Show will be judged by Dr. Larry Boleman of Bryan. This show will include classes for Angus, Brahman, Brangus. Charolais. Hereford, Red Poll, Santa Gertrudis, and Shorthorn.

The open beef shows will include seven breeds. The fair will host the State Red Poll show and sale. The Red Poll show will be judged by Dr. Boleman. The American Brahman Breeders' Association approved show will be judged by Dr. Glenn Richardson of Longview. Richardson will also judge the Santa Gertrudis Show. Dr. Harold Frank[illegible] Station will judge th[illegible]d and Charolais shows. Bob Franke of Bryan will judge the Brangus and Angus shows.

A. M. Meekma of A&M will judge the Jersey, Guernsey, Brown Swiss, and Hoelstein dairy shows. Donald Osborne of Llano will judge the Swine show and Frank Craddock of College Station will judge the sheep show.

Entries for all livestock shows are due Sept. 1. Wirte the fair office, Box 1257, Brenham, TX 77833 or call 713-836-4112 or 836-8493 for entry cards and catalogs

Improvements made on the fair grounds include a new front entrance and rest room.

Entertainment attractions include Toni Ingrham and band on Wednesday night, South Texas Bohemian Cowboys on Thursday night, Dick Allen and River Roads Boys on Friday night, and Mickey Gilley and band on Saturday night.

Fair Stock Show Deadline Set

Entry deadline is Sept. 15 for the Junior Livestock Show at the Heart O'Texas Fair, October 5-10 in Waco. Catalogues containing all needed information are available without charge upon request.

Write: Junior Livestock Show, H.O.T. Fair, P.O. Box 7581, Waco, TX 76710.

Six Flags Sets New Schedule

Officials of Six Flags Over Texas today announced that the Arlington theme park will be open only during the evening hours from August 30 through September 3.

General Manager Dan Howells said the abbreviated schedule was made necessary by unusually early school openings which cut sharply the park's host and hostess staff. "The revised schedule," he said, "will assure our guests of full enjoyment of the park."

He said the park will open at 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. It will be open until 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and until midnight Friday.

During that period the price of tickets purchased at the park's front gate will be reduced to $5.50.

Regular pricing and normal operating hours will be in effect on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday of the Labor Day weekend.

After Labor Day, Six Flags will be open on weekends only until the end of Novmber.

Servicemen

RODNEY SCHLIPF

Cadet Rodney D. Schlipf, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Schlipf of Rockdale, recently completed a U. S. Air Force Reserve Officer's Training Corps field training encampment at Plattsburgh AFB, N.Y.

During the encampment, cadets receive survival and small arms training and aircraft and aircrew indoctrination. They also have the opportunity to observe careers in which they might wish to serve as Air Force officers.

Cadet Schlipf is a student at the University of Alabama.

RANDY ROBINSON of Thorndale will be the evangelist at a weekend revival at Battetown Baptist Church in Cameron. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. for three nights, beginning Friday, Aug. 27, and Sunday at 11 a.m. Special Music will be supplied by the Tate Gospel Singers from Temple.

Post Office Substitute Job Open

Postmaster Henry J. Litzman Jr. announces that the examination for substitute rural carrier is now open for the Cameron post office. Applications will be accepted until Sept. 13.

Applicants must have reached their 18th birthday on the date of filing application. Applicants must pass a written test. An eligible selected for appointment must have a valid state drivers license, a good driving record, and pass the Postal Service road test. All substitute rural carriers must furnish and maintain a vehicle suitable for the transport of mail.

Salaries range from $40 to $50 per day depending on the length and character of the route plus a vehicle maintenance allowance. Substitute rural carriers are covered by social security and office of federal employes compension. An appointment as a substitute rural carrier also provides an opportunity for selection as a full time rural carrier should a vacancy occur in the office assigned. Substitute rural carriers generally will work during any absence of the regular rural carrier.

All applicants will receive consideration for appointment without regard to race, national origin, sex, religion, political affiliation, or any other non-merit factor. More information and filing procedures may be obtained from the Cameron post office.

New Park Sets Hours For Fall

Hawaii Kai, the family entertainment park located in Arlington, has announced the park will remain open on weekends through Sept. 26 and possibly year around on a week schedule during the fall and winter months.

The park will be open daily through Labor Day, Sept. 6, and is now offering luaus for the public every Friday and Saturday night. The luaus begin at 8:30 p.m. and include an exotic Polynesian buffet, Hawaiian stage show, and visiting privileges to Hawaii Kai throughout the day of the luau.

Hawaii Kai is open from 10 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. with ticket sales ending at 6 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for children, aged 4-11, and children 3 and under are admitted free. Luau tickets are $12.50 per person.

It was too good to be true. Suddenly I found I had the opportunity to visit the land of my dreams — a tropical island! It was long ago when my beloved "rolling stone" uncle visited my home, brimming with stories of the fascinating, delightful South Seas. I had been convinced that life in this land would be a forever-happy thing.

And now the magical moment had come. I found that the sky was, indeed, bluer than blue, the flowers brilliant and luxurious, the sea clear and everchanging. Yes, it was all this and more.

But one day as I stood on the shore listening to the roaring rhyme of the waves, I realized that I was no happier than I had been before. I discovered that my problems were within me. How could I have assumed that happiness would be guaranteed on an enchanted island?

These thoughts prompted me to return to my church which I had ignored for many years. Here I found my faith was renewed, and I found self-respect and understanding that come from loving God and doing His will. I sensed anew that no man can expect to experience true happiness without Him. Hurry to your church — there to find the ingredients to make your days and your life glad and secure.

ONION ROLLS

1 pkg. frozen cloverleaf rolls
¼ cup butter
2 cups finely chopped Texas green onions or white onions
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Thaw rolls. Separate each roll into 3 natural divisions. Roll out round and as thin as possible. In a 10-inch skillet, melt butter; saute onions in butter until wilted but not brown. Add salt and pepper. Allow to cool. Put 1 teaspoon onion mixture on each dough circle; moisten edges and fold over. Press edges together. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake at 375 degrees until brown. Yield: approximately 2 dozen rolls.

For additional onion recipes send a postcard request to Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

The proposed pay raise for elected Milam County officials, published in 8-23-76 edition of The Cameron Herald, was not received with mixed emotions. But with bewilderment. It is hard to visualize a governing body of the county that would propose themselves a cost of living raise and completely disregard the need of their fellow workers. After all, inflation has been in all our pockets for a long time.
